"Happy who, with bright regard looks back
Upon his father's fathers ; who with joy
Recounts their deeds of grace, and in himself
Values the latest link in the fair chain
Of noble sequences ; for nature loves
Not at one bound to achieve her topmost type,
But step by step she leads a family on
To demigod or devil ; the rare joy
Or horror of the world,"

MEMORIAL.

THIS work, the imperfect result of much loving labor, was inspired by grateful remembrance of the tender, patient, noble-minded Eber Bartlett, father of the Author and Compiler. It is very likely, an unimportant tribute to a man whose unselfish life was very rich in benefit to his children and all others, even of alien households, but there is a comfort of a peculiar kind, founded upon most grateful recollections of one of the kindest of parents, in thus dedicating to him the result of very many days pleasantly and perhaps not quite unprofitably, occupied. With reverential affection has the writer ever borne in mind the gentle, courageous, forbearing ancestor, whose virtues are herein altogether too indifferently commemorated.
