INTRODUCTION.

Few men in the Christian ministry to-day know what toils and privations accompanied the early pioneer preachers.

It is well to take a glance backward, and read a few sketches of those men who went forth without money and without price, trying to sow the seed of the Kingdom in the wild regions of America.

In preparing the second part of this work for publication, it is not the sole object merely to preserve a family history, but to show to the present generation what it cost our forefathers to purchase the blessings and liberties that we as a nation enjoy.
