1867-1917

IN THE year 1867 Edwin Ginn took desk room in a modest Boston office and so began the business which has for many years been conducted under the firm name of Ginn and Company. When an individual or an organization reaches the half-century mark it seems fitting to signalize in some appropriate way that achievement. Casting about for a suitable anniversary memento of our own fifty years, we were struck by the remarkable growth and development of the school system of the United States during this period.

It finally seemed to us that we could do no better than invite Dr. Ernest C. Moore to sum up the educational progress of the United States since 1867. We are sure that Dr. Moore's admirable sketch of the history of education in this country for the period beginning in 1867 and ending in 1917 will be a welcome and useful contribution to our educational literature, and we bring it before the public with gratitude that our own business development has been contemporaneous with this marvelous change in our American schools.
