ON

Artistic Photography

By H. P. ROBINSON.

IF one would be successful in making "pictures," not merely ordinary photographs, a knowledge of the elementary principles of art is essential. These are plainly, clearly and charmingly set forth by Mr. H. P. Robinson in the following books, and we earnestly urge everyone who wants even greater fascination in following photography, whether as a pastime or a business, to study them.

AT HOME PORTRAIT.

[The above was made by Mr. Lyon within a few months of starting photography. He followed the principles set forth in this book, the author having thought it wise to see what the average amateur could do, with a little instruction, before he committed his ideas to type.]
