MORNING SESSION.

TUESDAY, June 5, 1894.

The Maine Homœopathic Medical Society assembled for its twenty-eighth annual session in the parlors of the Augusta House, Augusta, Maine, on Tuesday, June 5, 1894, at ten o'clock A. M. W. L. Thompson, M. D., of Augusta, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, called the convention to order by saying: — "It has been my custom year by year, as Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, to make some brief remarks, but this morning my presence will be all I can do or say. I cannot trust myself to talk. It is a satisfaction however, which I may be allowed to express, to be able to meet with you once more. I think the records will show that I have answered to the roll call at every annual meeting of this society but one, since its organization, twenty-eight years ago. That will speak for the interest I have always had and shall continue to cherish for this organization, and it is a great pleasure for me to see so many of the old and true friends of the society present on this occasion."
