THE JOHN BOHLEN LECTURESHIP.

JOHN BOHLEN, who died in Philadelphia on the twenty-sixth day of April, 1874, bequeathed to trustees a fund of One Hundred Thousand Dollars, to be distributed to religious and charitable objects in accordance with the well-known wishes of the testator.

By a deed of trust, executed June 2, 1875, the trustees, under the will of Mr. BOHLEN transferred and paid over to "The Rector, Church Wardens, and Vestrymen of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Philadelphia," in trust, a sum of money for certain designated purposes, out of which fund the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars was set apart for the endowment of THE JOHN BOHLEN LECTURESHIP, upon the following terms and conditions:—

"The money shall be invested in good, substantial, and safe securities, and held in trust for a fund to be called The John Bohlen Lectureship; and the income shall be applied annually to the payment of a qualified person, whether clergyman or layman, for the delivery [and publication of at least one hundred copies of two or more lecture sermons. These lectures shall be delivered at such time and place, in the city of Philadelphia, as the persons nominated to appoint the lecturer shall from time to time determine, giving at least six months' notice to the person appointed to deliver the same, when the same may conveniently be done, and in no case selecting the same person as lecturer a second time within a period of five years. The payment shall be made to said lecturer, after the lectures have been printed and received by the trustees, of all the income for the year derived from said fund, after defraying the expense of printing the lectures and the other incidental expenses attending the same.

"The subject of such lectures shall be such as is within the terms set forth in the will of the Rev. John Bampton, for the delivery of what are known as the 'Bampton Lectures,' at Oxford, or any other subject distinctively connected with or relating to the Christian Religion.

"The lecturer shall be appointed annually in the month of May, or as soon thereafter as can conveniently be done, by the persons who for the time being shall hold the offices of Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese in which is the Church of the Holy Trinity; the Rector of said Church; the Professor of Biblical Learning, the Professor of Systematic Divinity, and the Professor of Ecclesiastical History, in the Divinity School of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Philadelphia,

"In case either of said offices are vacant, the others may nominate the lecturer."

Under this trust the Reverend H. P. NICHOLS, D. D. of New York, N. Y. was appointed to deliver the lectures for the year 1905.

CONTENTS.

LECTURE I.

THE TEMPORARY AND THE PERMANENT INHERENT IN REVELATION.

	PAGE
I. The suspected positions of one age become the accepted commonplaces of another	1
The temporary and permanent to be separated on recognized principles ; the results to be appropriated as of foremost value for a reasonable Christianity	4
II. The title may offend on first hearing. The principle involved has long been conceded	5
III. The keynote of the separation of temporary and permanent is Translation	8
Duty to translate whatever is to be kept alive.	9
Translation to be applied to New Testament as to all other possessions of value	13
The individual makes his own by translation	14
IV. Universality another keynote of separation of temporary and permanent	15
Universality of the Gospel our boast	16
What is of universal value learned by discrimination.	16

	PAGE
The universal discovered by degrees	18
Creed and Liturgy constantly throwing off temporary	24
V. The principle of Separation has been already admitted	27
In New Testament times	28
In the history of the Church	30
VI. Outline of the course of lectures	32

LECTURE II.

THE TEMPORARY AND THE PERMANENT IN A WRITTEN REVELATION.

I. Christianity the Religion of a Book	34
The Church existed before the Book ; and a Revelation requires one to receive it	34
Yet the Book is the standard and witness of Christianity	35
The Book is Christianity's characteristic and glory	37
II. The Book demands separation of temporary from permanent	40
Written in time : its contents to be determined ; to be interpreted	40
The Canon illustrates this separation	43
The forming of the Canon a historical process	44
Study of its method confirms our faith in its value	47

	PAGE
III. Inspiration of less moment than canonicity	51
Inspiration does not extend to individual style	53
Does not belong to all Scripture alike. The liturgical use of the Bible may select and omit the temporary	55
IV. The separation of temporary and permanent applies to interpretation of the Book	60
Every sacred book has a partly earthly, partly heavenly parentage	62
Use of Old Testament by New Testament writers, notably Christ	65
A less fragmentary view of the Scriptures is growing	69
V. What remains of God's Word for God's people	70

LECTURE III.

THE TEMPORARY AND THE PERMANENT IN THE INCARNATION.

The Man is behind the Book.

I. The Incarnation is the concentreing fact of thought and hope	76
The Incarnation involves race, family, place, time, education, opportunity	77
The union of the divine and human is the glory and the difficulty of the Incarnation	78
The Christ of History and of Experience must eliminate temporary factors	80
The divine Christ emerges	86
