PREFACE
TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

---

IN the present Edition I have rewritten the Chapter on Classification, and at the suggestion of one of my critics I have added an Index. These changes, together with some new hints on treatment, which a more extended experience has suggested, constitute almost the only alterations in the Fourth Edition.

PREFACE
TO THE THIRD EDITION.

---

IN the present Edition I have carefully abstained from altering in any respect the character of this book. I have, however, added a short chapter on the morbid anatomy of the skin; and also somewhat enlarged the account given of several diseases, such as Erythema, Ichthyosis, Miliaria, Psoriasis, Tinea decalvans, &c. Reference has been made, for the first time, in this Edition to the use of Goa powder in the treatment of Tinea tonsurans, to chloral camphor in Pruritus, nitrite of lead in Onychia, and to some other remedies. Lastly, a brief notice of Xanthoma, Lichen planus, Pityriasis rubra, and Epithelioma, has been for the first time introduced.
