OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We do not know a book which, in so small a compass, so satisfactorily discusses this great branch of Christian enquiry."—Non-conformist.

"We think the Author has well accomplished the work which he set himself to do. He reasons as one who is well trained in dialectics, thoroughly understands his subject, and has a purpose to accomplish dear to his heart. It is one of the best books on the subject."—The Homilist.

"This is the most complete work known to us upon the argument from miracles in its present shape. So much solid thinking and luminous statement have not often been condensed into so narrow a compass."—United Presbyterian Magazine.

"We have perused this volume with sincere admiration of the tact and talent with which the Author has handled his subject. We rejoice to see a work evincing so much sound thought and critical research, and cordially recommend it to all who would have their faith strengthened by instead of stumbling at the miracles of Scripture."—British and Foreign Evangelical Review.

"This little book deserves from us the warmest eulogy. It undertakes a most important work, and does it admirably."—Weekly Review.

"The book is admirably adapted to its end, and we know of no book which we could put with more confidence into the hands either of the perplexed or of those whom we should like to fortify against the latest forms of sceptical argument."—Christian Witness.
