FOREWORD

It is with peculiar pleasure that The Central Committee on the United Study of Foreign Missions presents this, its seventeenth, volume.

Four years ago the Committee secured Miss Mackenzie's consent to write a text-book on the approach of the Gospel to primitive peoples—An African Trail is the result.

The editors of The Atlantic Monthly, who in 1915 published Miss Mackenzie's letters under the title Black Sheep, requested the privilege of printing two chapters of this text-book in their magazine. These appeared in the issues of November and December, 1916, by permission of The Central Committee.

Miss Mackenzie; experienced missionary, distinguished author, penetrating student of divine and human nature, is exceptionally fitted for her task, and has given a unique and valuable contribution to the literature of missions.
