

THE FARMER BOY WHO BECAME A BISHOP: THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY
OF THE RIGHT REVEREND ANSON
ROGERS GRAVES

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649581689

The Farmer Boy Who Became a Bishop: The Autobiography of the Right Reverend Anson Rogers Graves by Anson Rogers Graves

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

ANSON ROGERS GRAVES

THE FARMER BOY WHO BECAME A BISHOP: THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY
OF THE RIGHT REVEREND ANSON
ROGERS GRAVES

ANSON R. GRAVES AT SIXTY YEARS OF AGE.

THE FARMER BOY —WHO—
BECAME A BISHOP

The Autobiography of
The Right Reverend
ANSON ROGERS GRAVES,
S. T. D., LL. D.

THE NEW WERNER COMPANY
AKRON, OHIO
1911

ANDOVER-HARVARD
THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY

NOV 16 1911

HARVARD
DIVINITY SCHOOL

H49,078

Copyright, 1911
By Anson R. Graves

This book can be obtained at Bookstores at fifty cents per volume. If the book dealer does not have it and will not order same for you, The New Werner Company of Akron, Ohio, will supply same on receipt of price.

DEDICATION.

---

I dedicate this book to all boys who want to make something of themselves.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER.		PAGE.
I.	Childhood .....	5
II.	Frontier Life .....	9
III.	Childish Aspirations .....	15
IV.	Farm Life .....	25
V.	Political Aspirations .....	33
VI.	School Days in Rutland .....	38
VII.	Freshman Year in College .....	49
VIII.	Sophomore Year .....	56
IX.	Later College Career .....	67
X.	Teaching and Business .....	76
XI.	Seminary Life .....	83
XII.	Europe .....	87
XIII.	Germany .....	94
XIV.	Work in the West .....	100
XV.	Work in New England .....	104
XVI.	Gethsemane Church, Minneapolis .....	108
XVII.	Early Episcopate .....	114
XVIII.	1891 .....	121
XIX.	1892 .....	125
XX.	1893 .....	126
XXI.	1894 .....	130
XXII.	1895 .....	136
XXIII.	1896 .....	140
XXIV.	1897 .....	144
XXV.	1898 .....	147
XXVI.	1899 .....	150
XXVII.	1900 .....	154
XXVIII.	1901 .....	158
XXIX.	1902 .....	161
XXX.	1903 .....	164
XXXI.	1904 .....	168
XXXII.	1905 .....	171
XXXIII.	1906 .....	177
XXXIV.	1907 .....	187
XXXV.	1908 .....	191
XXXVI.	1909 .....	195
XXXVII.	1910 .....	200

CHAPTER I.

CHILDHOOD.

AMONG the green hills of western Vermont, where the Pond Mountains almost overhang the beautiful Lake Austin, I was born on the 13th day of April, 1842. It was in the Town of Wells, Rutland County. We then lived by a small stream, the outlet of the lake, on which was a small flouring mill. In a room attached to this mill my father had a shop in which he manufactured hats, both the ordinary wool hats and the high beaver hats worn by many men on special occasions.

My father, whose name was Daniel, was the son of Daniel Graves of Ira, Vermont, who kept the hotel, manufactured shoes, leather and potash, and represented the town in the legislature. He had come as a young married man from Old Hadley in the western part of Massachusetts. My great-grandfather was Deacon Nathan Graves, who was fifth in descent from Thomas Graves, formerly of Hartford, Connecticut, and who came to this country from England about 1640. Deacon Nathan Graves, my great-grandfather, lived on Chestnut Mountain in Hadley, Massachusetts, and both he and his boys were considered great hunters. As they lived at the time of the Revolutionary War, no doubt game was plenty in western Massachusetts. Perhaps it was from them that I inherited my great fondness for hunting wild game. Nathan Graves bore arms in the French and Indian War and also in the Revolutionary War. My grandfather, Daniel, was too young, but five of his older brothers fought in the Revolutionary War. The great-grandfather of this Nathan Graves, John Graves, and his brother were killed in King Philip's War. My mother was the daughter of Jedediah Rogers, who had moved from Norwich, Connecticut. He was fourth in descent from James Rogers of New London, Connecticut, who came from England about 1635. My grandfather Rogers, when a child, saw the burning of New London by Benedict Arnold in the Revolutionary War.

I was rather a feeble child the first two years and nervous, but gradually became strong and active like my brothers. One of my earliest recollections was attending a district school over Culver Hill when I was three or four years old with my older sisters and brother Orson. My brother drew a hand sled to school in the winter and on our way home we would all get on and coast down the Culver Hill for a quarter of a mile. There were two or three ridges across this road down the hill to turn the water into the side gutter. These we called "thank you ma'ams" and as the sled would strike these and take a jump we would all shout "Thank you ma'am."

One time, when I was about four years old, while