INTRODUCTORY.

It comes very convenient, and sometimes necessary, in the examination of real estate titles to know the location of some street, the name of which cannot now be found on the city map.

I have spent considerable time in getting the data for the following pages and I think the list is very nearly correct and complete.

The first column contains the former name of the street; the second column its present name, and in the last is given the date of the city ordinance changing the name. Where the name appears in the second column and the first is vacant, the original name will be found in the third column, and by referring to that name in its alphabetical order, the date of the change can be ascertained.
