FOREWORD.

In presenting this, the second annual report of the Ohio Valley Historical Association, the members of the Publication Committee wish to congratulate the organization upon the distinct progress which its work already indicates and the widely spreading interest in historical matters which is surely the result of the Association's expanding influence. Its success clearly demonstrates the need of some such general clearing house in the local historical field and we bespeak for it the heartiest support of every person interested in Ohio Valley history. The aim of the Publication Committee has been merely to present the formal papers and addresses of the second annual meeting at Marietta, whenever these could be procured, or at least a brief summary of their contents, and a concise running account of the events of that meeting, together with such formal reports of the officers and committees as would indicate the activities of the Association. We regret that we are unable to furnish certain addresses, but beg leave to state that this omission is not due to any lack of effort on the part of the Publication Committee. It has seemed impossible to avoid delay in this publication, but we feel confident that this will be avoided in the future.

In conclusion we desire to thank the Executive Committee of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society for their courtesy in permitting the main features of this report to appear in the October number of their QUARTERLY, and the individual publications, noted in the following pages, for permission to reprint certain articles.

E. O. RANDALL,
ARCHER B. HULBERT,
ISAAC JOSLIN COX.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for transparency and accountability, particularly in financial matters. This section also highlights the need for regular audits and reviews to ensure that all data is up-to-date and correct.

2. The second part of the document focuses on the implementation of internal controls and risk management strategies. It outlines various measures that can be taken to prevent fraud, mismanagement, and other potential risks. These include establishing clear policies and procedures, separating duties, and implementing robust monitoring systems. The document also discusses the importance of training employees on these controls and the consequences of non-compliance.

3. The third part of the document addresses the role of technology in modern business operations. It explores how digital tools and software can streamline processes, improve efficiency, and enhance data security. However, it also warns of the risks associated with technology, such as data breaches and system downtime, and provides recommendations for mitigating these risks through secure practices and regular updates.

4. The final part of the document discusses the importance of communication and collaboration within an organization. It stresses that effective communication is key to ensuring that all team members are aligned with the organization's goals and objectives. This involves regular meetings, clear reporting lines, and a culture of open communication. The document also touches on the importance of external communication, such as maintaining good relationships with customers, suppliers, and regulatory bodies.

V.

Excursion, Saturday, 7:30 A. M.

Captain William M. Hall, U. S. Engineer in charge of Dam No. 18, invites the Association in common with the Marietta and Parkersburg Boards of Trade to pay a visit to the Dam. The low stage of the river and the nearing of completion of this great work makes the present opportunity one of a lifetime. Interurban cars can be taken at the Bellevue or Norwood Hotels at 7:00, 7:30 or 8:00, which will allow visitors time for sight-seeing and permit them to return on the car reaching Marietta at 9:30 or at 10:00 o'clock. Round trip fare to Bryn Mawr (Dam 18) thirty cents.

VI.

Meeting of the History Teachers, Saturday, 10:00 A. M., Assembly Hall, The Library, Marietta College. Meeting under the direction of F. P. Goodwin, Cincinnati.

Paper—"The Civic Value of Local History"—Arthur W. Dunn, Director of Civics, Indianapolis Public Schools.
