As I journey towards the strange gulf, where Life and Death clasp hands, and Man, as Man, has finished with the fitful round of dawns and sunsets in this world—I pray that something which is best in me may still survive to love and dream and hope in other of Thy worlds, where love and dreams are life.

A Morning Prayer

O God, we thank Thee for another day and for our longing that it shall be better than our yesterday.

We thank Thee for all that Life has brought us through the years and grieve that we have given back to Life so little of our noblest selves. And whether life shall give to us to-day its best, or whether it withholds that gift, we pray that we may give to it our best and know that nothing lost to any noble soul is worthy to be treasured as a gift from Thee.

We pray that we may learn how sacred
