To the

REV. HENRY PARRY LIDDON, D.D., D.C.L.,

IRELAND PROFESSOR OF EXEGESIS IN THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD, CANON OF ST. PAUL'S.

MY DEAR LIDDON,

You will readily believe that there are many reasons why I should gladly seize the opportunity of dedicating this volume to you, but it will be sufficient to mention two. In the first place, it has long been my wish to put on record some acknowledgment of a friendship which has now lasted nearly twenty-five years, dating from my first undergraduate term at Oxford, and which has been to me the source of so much happiness and so many blessings. Yet what could I hope to offer of my own that would be at all worthy of your acceptance? Here, however, where for the most part the language alone is mine, and the thoughts are those of one whom we have both learned to love and reverence, is something which I may not unfitly present and you need not hesitate to accept. And then, again, I would ask you to welcome this Dedication, as a little souvenir of the pleasant and profitable hours we spent together last year at Munich in the company of the illustrious author.

Wishing you every blessing, and praying that you may long be spared with health and strength to labour in your place for those sacred interests, so dear to both of us, to which Dr. Dollinger has here devoted the ripe wisdom of his maturest reflections,

I am ever, my dear Liddon,

Most affectionately yours,

H. N. OXENHAM.
