

THE GAME OF PALLONE, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO
THE PRESENT DAY,
HISTORICALLY CONSIDERED

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649380817

The Game of Pallone, from Its Origin to the Present Day, Historically Considered by Anthony L. Fisher

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

ANTHONY L. FISHER

THE GAME OF PALLONE, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO
THE PRESENT DAY,
HISTORICALLY CONSIDERED

THE GAME OF PALLONE,

FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY,
HISTORICALLY CONSIDERED.

BY
ANTHONY L. FISHER, M.D.

WITH ILLUSTRATIONS BY W. REYNOLDS.

LONDON:
BELL AND DALDY, 186, FLEET STREET.
1865.

100

101

102

103

104

105

106

107

108

109

110

111

112

113

114

115

116

117

118

119

120

121

122

123

124

125

126

127

128

129

130

131

132

133

134

135

136

137

138

139

140

141

142

143

144

145

146

147

148

149

150

151

152

153

154

155

156

157

158

159

160

161

162

163

164

165

166

167

168

169

170

171

172

173

174

175

176

177

178

179

180

181

182

183

184

185

186

187

188

189

190

191

192

193

194

195

196

197

198

199

200

INTRODUCTION.

EVERY Englishman takes an interest in athletic games ; whether it be the Turf, the Chase, or Cricket, the attraction is the same.

The game of Pallone, which forms the subject of the following work, is not much known in England.

It is with a view to bring this noble game, which is still played in many cities of Italy, more prominently before the English public, that I have undertaken the present treatise.

A. L. F.

LONDON, June, 1865.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is crucial for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for consistent and reliable data collection processes to support informed decision-making.

3. The third part of the document focuses on the role of technology in modern data management. It discusses how advanced software solutions can streamline data collection, storage, and analysis, leading to more efficient and accurate results.

4. The fourth part of the document addresses the challenges associated with data management, such as data quality, security, and privacy. It provides strategies to mitigate these risks and ensure that data is handled responsibly and in compliance with relevant regulations.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes by summarizing the key findings and recommendations. It stresses the importance of ongoing monitoring and evaluation to ensure that data management practices remain effective and up-to-date.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
Introduction—The antiquity of the game of Pallone—The Pallone and the “Follis pugillatorius” of the Romans—Alluded to by Plautus—Martial—Identity with the French game “Ballon”—Its athletic characteristics, and claim to the favour of Englishmen	1

THE MEANING OF THE TERM PALLONE.

Historical description of the game—The modern Italians compared to the Romans and Greeks—The game at Venice in 1555—Its exhibition in Bologna and Florence by a professional company—Decline of its former interest, and explanation of the cause	8
---	---

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE GAME.

The arena and floor—Galleries for spectators—The high wall—Attempted introduction of Pallone in Paris, in 1855—Played in Bologna without a wall—The Trapolino—The Battitore—The Mandarino—The Battuta and Rimessa	11
---	----

THE PALLONE, OR GREAT BALL.

Manufacture described—Its inflation—How the ball was inflated by the Romans—Improvement in the inflation and manufacture of the balls—The Pallonaro—The Pallone Valve—The use of vulcanized India-rubber for the balls—The Pallone played in London (1852-53) at Lord's Cricket Ground .	17
--	----

	PAGE
The Bracciale, and how it is made—Force given to the ball—The Scanno—The game of Club-ball, and origin of Cricket—English adoption of Italian games—The Tennis-court at Hampton Court Palace—Balloon-ball and Pallone considered identical—The professional company and their method of play described	25
How the game is counted—Its introduction into England, and general observations concerning it—A description of Tamburello, and the way it is played—The “Jeu de paume au tamis”—Concluding remarks	33

PALLONE.

At a time when the revival of active and manly games and sports excites such attention in England, it may not be out of place to introduce to the acquaintance of the amateurs and promoters of games, a knowledge of one which, for centuries past, has been practised in Italy, under the name of Pallone, or Great Ball, and which has held as high a position relatively to all the other games of the country, as the game of cricket does at the present day in England.

As everything concerning the welfare of that classic country has for the last few years enlisted a lively sympathy in England, I am led to hope that this feeling will secure a cordial encouragement to my purpose. This purpose is, to write a short sketch of the game, to trace its high antiquity, to describe the arena or locality in which it is played, and the instruments used. In a country where so great veneration is entertained for everything that is old, the high antiquity alone of this game ought to entitle it to a hearty welcome. Though no Latin author, that I am aware of, gives a detailed account of Pallone, still allusions are made