PREFACE.

---

In its first edition this book was designed and prepared for the exclusive use of the students of the MILLER SCHOOL, New York. Within a short time of its appearance, however, its necessity and value having been demonstrated, many of my personal friends throughout the United States who were at that time, and are now, teaching GREGG SHORTHAND, desired to make it a regular part of each student's outfit. Consequently, in this second edition, an agreement was reached with the author of Gregg Shorthand for its publication as an independent book. Following this agreement, it was a matter of great satisfaction to me, naturally, to hear the public endorsement given this little work by the author of the system, at the meeting of the Gregg Shorthand Association held at the rooms of the Gregg School, in the city of Chicago, July, 1901.

It is now presented in an enlarged and much beautified form. The penmanship has been written by a gentleman known to have no superior in the writing of Gregg Shorthand, and the writing is in full accord with the revised edition of the Gregg Manual recently published.

To my fellow teachers, whose aim is the highest possible development of the wonderful art of Stenography, this work is respectfully commended.

CHARLES M. MILLER.

NEW YORK, NOV. 1, 1902.
