THE WORDS FROM THE CROSS.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS ON FORMER EDITIONS.

"Dr. Lee's Sermons upon our Lord's Words from the Cross, though everywhere marked by exact theological terminology, are so plain in their language, and, we may add, so solemn in their thought and tone, that no one could read them unmoved An important contribution to our pulpit literature."—Oxford University Herald.

"We have lately seen no more remarkable volume of sermons than Dr. Lee's Words from the Cross—sermons on our Saviour's 'Seven Sayings.' They are plain, forcible, and yet eloquent."—Daily Post.

"Replete alike with sound doctrine and practical application of the same. Couched in eloquent language. We cordially recommend them to our readers' notice."—John Bull.

"Written, as usual with him, with feeling, and in imaginative and often eloquent language."—Guardian.

"A warm, affectionate, and reverent appreciation of the Passion of our Lord."—Clerical Journal.

"We have seldom read any sermons more forcible and more eloquent than these. At the same time they are so plain, and the language is so well chosen, that a child might follow them."—Morning Post.
