"THE Schaykill, sacred to the barge of mirth,
Its green banks consecrate to pleasure's paths."

"Fairmount! on whose tall top the waters lie,
Lifted as in a great baptismal font;
The height from whence the river deity
Pours, from his giant and refreshing urn,
The stream which slakes a grateful city's thirst."

"In the far landscape, winding slow,
—— the silvery line
Of tranquil Delaware."¹¹

"Here, stranger, stay! these are the sacred grounds
Which knew the patriots in the days agone,
Here trod the noblest form the land has known."
The New Pastoral.

FAIRMOUNT PARK.

FAIRMOUNT PARK, at Philadelphia, is the most extensive, and in natural advantages the most attractive, among the pleasure-grounds of Europe and America.
