Prefatory Note

In addition to the Alumni Associations of the separate schools, there was organized in 1902 the General Alumni Society of New York University. By provision of its By-Laws (Article I., Section 1), "Any graduate of any department or any matriculate of a class which has graduated and who has left New York University in good standing may, upon payment of a subscription to the Society, become a member. Any one not a graduate or a matriculate, who is or has been a member of the Council or of the teaching force of New York University, or any one holding an honorary degree from New York University may become a member of this Society, but may not hold office or vote at any meeting thereof."

In partial fulfilment of one of its objects, "the maintenance of a list of the names and addresses of all matriculates of the University," and in commemoration of the Semisesquicentennial of the University in 1905, the General Alumni Society has undertaken to publish a General Alumni Catalogue of New York University.

It is the plan of the catalogue to provide a complete list of all who have received degrees from the University and of all officers of administration and instruction; to give under the several names condensed biographies; and to add, in case of the deceased, the date and place of death, and, in case of the living, the present address.

The names of the Alumni have been grouped in classes under the various schools of the University.

The present volume is to be followed by another containing the names of the Alumni of the Schools at Washington Square (Law, Graduate, Pedagogy, Commerce), together with the Veterinary College; and that by a third volume, under the editorial supervision of Dr. Egbert Le Fevre, secretary of the General Alumni Society, containing the names of the Alumni of the Medical School.

In the preparation of the present volume, material has been gathered by means of circular letters, enclosing blanks for data, sent directly to all Alumni whom it was possible to reach. Such letters have been followed up by cards urging that the requested information be sent, and by a large amount of personal correspondence. In addition to this direct source of information, material has been gathered in ways less immediate. The excellent Biographical Catalogue, published by the Alumni Association of the College in 1894, has supplied a large amount of data. The archives of the University, the catalogues of the various College fraternities represented at New York University, the annual, quarterly, and weekly publications of the students, the catalogues of other academical institutions, general and annual, the year-books of religious denominations, the standard encyclopedias of biography, Who's Who in America, Who's Who in New York, and many other sources, have been at hand for constant reference.

The arrangement of material under each name has taken the following order:

Occupation.

Degrees received from New York University and other institutions.

Parentage and birth.

Preparation for New York University.

College record and honors.

Record since graduation.

Honors received and membership in societies.

Publications.

Marriage and children.

Relatives in New York University.

Address, if living, or date and place of death if deceased.

The editor would welcome additional information under the above heads which has not been included in the present volume, but may be of service to those having in charge a subsequent edition of the catalogue.

Thanks are due to many of the Alumni, who have contributed suggestions and information tending to make the work more complete. Mr. James Abbott, of the Class of '83, Treasurer of the General Alumni Society, has served the Society as Publication Committee. His familiarity with the processes which intervene between completed manuscript and a bound volume has greatly facilitated the progress of the Catalogue through the press.

It is assumed that errors will appear in spite of the most painstaking care to avoid them. It is also admitted that most of the omissions in such a compilation can be filled up if sufficient time is allotted to the work. It is believed, however, that the claim of further research for the sake of completeness at length must yield to the claim that less perfect results be given out for general use.

HENRY M. BROWN, '86,
Editor.
