

1792-1892. ONE HUNDRED
YEARS OF THE HARTFORD BANK,
NOW THE HARTFORD NATIONAL
BANK, OF HARTFORD, CONN

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649126873

1792-1892. One hundred years of the Hartford bank, now the Hartford National bank, of Hartford, Conn by P. H. Woodward

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

P. H. WOODWARD

1792-1892. ONE HUNDRED
YEARS OF THE HARTFORD BANK,
NOW THE HARTFORD NATIONAL BANK, OF HARTFORD, CONN

HARTFORD NATIONAL BANK.

75 State Street.

HARTFORD, CONN.

1792

1892

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF THE
HARTFORD BANK

NOW

THE HARTFORD NATIONAL BANK

OF

HARTFORD, CONN.

PREPARED AT THE REQUEST OF THE PRESIDENT AND DIRECTORS

BY
 P. H. WOODWARD ✓

HARTFORD, CONN.
 PRESS OF THE CASE, LOCKWOOD & BRAINARD COMPANY
 1892

JULY 25 - 1892

To the State of Connecticut

51214

PREFATORY

THIS volume was prepared at the request of the president and directors of the Hartford National Bank, in anticipation of its one hundredth anniversary, June 14, 1892. Without taking space to enumerate the books to be found in every well-equipped library, the writer wishes here to express his obligations to those who in various ways have kindly aided him. Most of the facts in regard to Col. Jeremiah Wadsworth were derived directly or indirectly from Jonathan F. Morris. Much assistance has been drawn from a series of able and accurate papers on "Currency and Banking in Connecticut," prepared by Joseph G. Woodward, and printed in the Courant during 1876. For valuable suggestions and for the loan of rare books and pamphlets, the writer is under special obligations to Sherman W. Adams, whose library is exhaustive in most matters pertaining to Connecticut. Charles J. Hoadly has made liberal contributions from his vast and varied stores. Other facts were furnished by Nathan Starkweather. Clerks at the Capitol have shown unfailing courtesy in hunting for ancient accounts and papers. John W. Stedman, president of the Connecticut Historical Society; Frank B. Gay, of the Watkinson Library; and Miss C. M. Hewins, of the Hartford Library Association, have been specially helpful. Others also, by furnishing old manuscripts and by showing a generous interest in the work, have contributed to make the task a pleasure.

P. H. W.

HARTFORD, CONN., March 22, 1892.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

	PAGE
Organization	9

The hundredth anniversary—Relative age—Prosperity of the colonies before the Revolution—Experiences with fiat money—Deplorable condition of the people after the war—"The curse of barter"—Early steps to secure a bank—A charter obtained—Its provisions—The bank organized June 14, 1792—Rules adopted.

CHAPTER II

The Situation in 1792	22
---------------------------------	----

Financial measures of Alexander Hamilton and their effects—Hartford a provincial village in 1792—Streets—Agriculture and trade—Manufactures—Mail facilities, wealth, and taxation—A leading literary center—Social phases.

CHAPTER III

The Founders	31
------------------------	----

Jeremiah Wadsworth, John Caldwell, John Morgan, George Phillips, Barnabas Deane, Timothy Burr, James Watson, Caleb Bull, Ephraim Root, Oliver Ellsworth, John Trumbull, Channcey Goodrich, Enoch Perkins, Hudson & Goodwin of the Courant, Nehemiah Hubbard, Oliver Phelps, Noah Webster, Thomas Tisdall, Peleg Sanford, Jacob Ogden, Ezekiel Williams, Jr., Amasa Keyes, James Burr, John Chenevard, Elisha Colt, Chas. Hopkins, Daniel Wadsworth.

CHAPTER IV

Early Incidents and Progress 57

Early quarters, vault and safe—The burglar and the iron door—Scarcity of currency—Its motley character—A church subscription paper of 1786—Of what did the early assets consist?—The bank first introduces the decimal system in Connecticut—Schoolmasters speak—Esoteric rules—First Bank discount of Connecticut—Distrust of bank notes—State indents—Confidence won—The engraved plates—Influence of the bank coterie in the sale of the "Western reserve"—Salary of the cashier—Capital increased—Normand Knox, cashier—Counterfeiting—Laborious transition from farm to town.

CHAPTER V

Occupancy Exclusive but Beneficent 79

Business activity stimulated and broadened—Connecticut becomes a stockholder—Introductory supervision—Further enlargement of capital—Tempting offers to religious societies and to educational and charitable incorporations—Distribution of premiums and disregard of surplus—Unjust conditions—Lessons in punctuality—Beginnings of local underwriting, fire and marine—The West India trade—The first chartered insurance company—Results of the embargo of 1807, and of the non-intercourse acts—The Hartford and New Haven Turnpike Company—Occupation of the present bank building.

CHAPTER VI

A Rival and a Revolution—War and Panic 99

Widespread confidence in the bank—Resistance to the establishment of a rival—Warning from "Probus"—Charter of Phoenix Bank—Quarrel over the disposition of the bonus—Rise of the "toleration" party—Its constituent elements—Its success—The constitution of 1838-9—The charter of 1869—Union of Church and State—Sundry concessions—Imperfect separation of legislative and judicial powers—The upper house a self-perpetuating oligarchy—The constitution of 1838—Horace Burr succeeds Normand Knox as cashier—Financial follies of the Middle and Southern States during the war of 1812—The United States Bank retired—Reckless creation of new banks—New England escapes the infatuation and profits accordingly—Unpopularity of the war at the East—Wise conservatism of our banks—Post notes authorized—Outpouring of "shin plasters"—Peace—Connecticut bankers vainly try "to persuade or compel" New York banks to resume—Struggles for a sound currency—Par of shares made $100—Industrial distress—The second Bank of the United States—The crisis of 1819—Retirement of President Caldwell.

CONTENTS

7

CHAPTER VII

The Second Generation 125

Reefing sails—Gen'l Nathaniel Terry, second president—Depression of 1820-1—Another step in supervision—The city watch—Employes must not trade or speculate—Courtesies to the United States branch bank—English panic of 1825—Failure of the Eagle Bank of New Haven, and of the Derby Bank—Hartford and the "Boston Alliance"—Joseph Trumbull elected president—The Hinsdale defalcation—Mild adversities—Cashier Burr exonerated and succeeded by Henry A. Perkins—The man for the emergency—Sworn statement before and after—Dividends suspended—A stockholder wants "her interest"—An overdrawn account—Resumption of regular dividends—More legislation—The first State committee of examination—Action of the bank—A board of bank commissioners created—Its cool reception at first—Panic of 1837—Stand taken by the banks of Hartford—Sound condition of the banks of Connecticut—Failures elsewhere—Exact methods of the cashier—Illustrative anecdote—The State and borrowing directors—David F. Robinson elected president—Book manufacture—Collapse of United States Bank No. 3—Comparative results of sound and unsound methods—Effect of railways upon the trade of Hartford with the upper Connecticut valley—Fail of the stage coach and of the country inn—Liberated capital applied to insurance and banking—Retirement of Mr. Robinson.

CHAPTER VIII

The Past Forty Years 154

Henry A. Perkins elected president—Corporate economy—Utilizing letter-margins—A. G. Hammond appointed cashier—George Ripley succeeds him—Panic of 1857—The Hartford Bank unscathed—James Bolter made cashier—War subscriptions—Enters the National system—Death of Mr. Perkins—A typical Puritan—James Bolter accepts the presidency—W. S. Bridgman, cashier—Panic of 1873—Its length and severity—Uninterrupted prosperity of the bank—The building modernized—The capital increased to $1,000,000—Aggregate dividends—President Bolter—Résumé—Volume of assets owned and held in trust by Hartford banks and insurance companies—Manufacturers—Conclusion.

Appendix 167

List of the executive officers of the bank since 1792—List of directors from 1792—List of original subscribers—Officers and employes in 1892.

