ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Some of the plays in this volume are original, others are original adaptations which have been made with a free hand from stories or plot incidents found in the works of various writers. Credit is due the following authors and publishers for material used in these adaptations:

Cicely and the Bears. This play is retold from an old poem by William Brighty Rands, an English writer.

The Happy Beggar is an adaptation of the poem entitled, "The Enchanted Shirt," by John Hay, and is used by permission of Houghton, Mifflin and Company.

Professor Frog's Lecture is an adaptation of Mrs. M. A. Lane's story which appeared in a pamphlet published by the American Humane Education Society.

Cock-Alu and Hen-Alie is an adaptation of a tale by Mary Howitt, an English writer.

The Fairy Shoemaker is an adaptation of a story by Jean Ingelow, an English writer.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Village Shoemaker centers around an incident found in one of Ann de Morgan's stories. The suggestion is used by permission of Duffield and Company.

The Faithful Shepherd is based on a legend well known in English History.

A Royal Toy-Mender was suggested by an incident in a story of Juliana Horatio Ewing, an English writer.
