

THE ROMANCE OF A PRO-
CONSUL: BEING THE PERSONAL
LIFE AND MEMOIRS OF THE
RIGHT HON. SIR GEORGE GREY

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649694891

The Romance of a Pro-Consul: Being the Personal Life and Memoirs of the Right Hon. Sir George Grey by James Milne

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

JAMES MILNE

THE ROMANCE OF A PRO-
CONSUL: BEING THE PERSONAL
LIFE AND MEMOIRS OF THE
RIGHT HON. SIR GEORGE GREY

THE ROMANCE OF A PRO-CONSUL

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS ON
THE ROMANCE OF A PRO-CONSUL

'In "The Romance of a Pro-Consul" Mr. Milne has given us a book which ought to be scattered broadcast wheresoever the English language is spoken. Sir George Grey was one of the great spirits of our age and race. . . . A style alive with an enthusiasm worthy of the subject. . . . One races through the pages, and turns back to the most stirring passages.'—GOOD WORDS.

'Sir George Grey was one of the most picturesque figures of the Victorian era, and Mr. Milne has very appropriately written his life in a picturesque style.'—DAILY NEWS.

'We recommend our readers to study Sir George Grey's career in the very striking monograph which records his intimate conversations with Mr. James Milne. . . . Wonderfully vivid and suggestive many of these "life pictures" are. They give us an insight which no collocation of letters or blue-book extracts could possibly afford into the character and inner life of the man.'—DAILY CHRONICLE.

'Admirably written. An edifying volume. The story of a man whose individuality of character and moral uprightness exercised a unique influence upon his time.'—DAILY MAIL.

'Full of quaint and characteristic stories. . . . Bound to be an interesting and suggestive volume.'—DAILY TELEGRAPH.

'Attractive pages. Many interesting conversations. . . . are here recorded with vigour and vividness.'—MORNING POST.

'A very interesting and even charming picture. . . . He writes straight from his heart.'—MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

'Marks a new departure in the domain of biography, and comes. . . . near Dean Burgon's ideal of what such a work should be. . . . Affords a remarkably clear idea of the character of Sir George Grey; eminently readable.'—SCOTSMAN.

'A picturesque monograph. . . . Interesting in its revelation of a rich and noble personality.'—LEEDS MERCURY.

'Romance is the right word for it. . . . Intensely alive. . . . In it flames not a little of the fiery enthusiasm of his hero.'—STAR.

'Very interesting. . . . The spoken thoughts and reminiscences of one of the Empire-builders of the century.'—PALL MALL GAZETTE.

'"The Romance of a Pro-Consul by a Francing Biographer" would have been an appropriate title. . . . Written on novel lines. . . . Scenes in the life of the great Pro-Consul. . . . Sparkles with striking phrases and brilliant sentences.'—REVIEW OF REVIEWS.

'Mr. Milne has Boswellised to some purpose; he reports Sir George Grey's talks with himself, describes the man in the flesh, and brings us very near to the solemn and winning personality of his "Great Pro-Consul."'—ACADEMY.

'An attractive portrait of an eminent personality.'—WORLD.

'A graphic and reliable portrait of the great administrator.'—CRITIC.

'Many good and new stories. . . . The career of Sir George Grey proves that it is possible to attain Mr. John Morley's ideal of "Sanitas et Imperium." —SKETCH.

'A consistent effort to let us feel the soul of his subject.'—MORNING LEADER.

'Fascinating. Flows along with such infectious swiftness that you read the book with ever increasing delight.'—EAST ANGLIAN DAILY TIMES.

'Mr. Milne has done a patriot's work in painting so faithful, so convincing a portrait of one whose whole life is a splendid object-lesson in patriotism.'—CAMBRIDGE DAILY NEWS.

Photo, Russell & Sons, London.

*with regards
G. Grey*

'Sir George Grey's career is a romance'—J. A. FROUDE

THE ROMANCE OF A PRO-CONSUL

BEING THE PERSONAL LIFE AND MEMOIRS OF THE RIGHT HON. SIR GEORGE GREY, K.C.B.

BY

JAMES MILNE

SECOND EDITION

Univ. of
Cal. Press

LONDON

CHATTO & WINDUS

1899

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS

A guide to Sir George Grey's career as soldier, explorer, administrator, statesman, thinker, and dreamer.	I. PERSONAL AND PARTICULAR I
Born at Lisbon April 14, 1812, during the Peninsular War.	II. HOME IS THE WARRIOR The return to England, 1894, with incidents of the Queen, the Earl of Rosebery, and James Anthony Froude; a memory of Lord Robert Cecil, and some notes on London 4
Gazetted from Sandhurst to the 83rd Regiment Foot, 1829, and served to a captaincy.	III. YOUTH THE BIOGRAPHER Or how the child was father to the man. Olive Schreiner's greeting; an orange-stall eloquent; a flight from school; a surpassing encounter at South Kensington; and a glimpse of Archbishop Whately 17
	IV. SAXON AND CELT A young soldier in the Old Ireland of the Thirties; varying scenes of Irish life and character; and stories of Dean Swift, Daniel O'Connell and Sir Hussey Vivian 27

THE ROMANCE OF A PRO-CONSUL

Sailed from Plymouth June 20, 1837, on the ship 'Beagle,' as leader of a Government expedition to explore North-West Australia.

Engaged in this work, and as Resident at King George's Sound, until 1840.

V. SOUTHWARD HO!

PAGE

The call to the New World; musings of the voyage and the sea; and, by contrast, the London perils of Thomas Carlyle and Babbage, Sir Charles Lyell's spear-head being also mentioned 38

VI. MAN AND NATURE ABORIGINAL

A battle with the blacks, wherein, unhappily, their leader fell, the white chief being seriously wounded; and later, a valiant march across the blistered Australian country 49

Named to the Governorship of South Australia in 1841, aged 29; held it until 1845, and during that period rescued the Colony from a state of chaos, setting it on the high road to prosperity.

VII. PLANTING THE BRITON

First principles of nation making; a harvest in South Australia; the witchcraft of Turner's wig; the vanity of riches; keeping the Anglo-Saxon ring; strange human documents; and a reference to Sir John Franklin 61

VIII. PICTURES IN BLACK AND WHITE

Food, as man's leading motive; curing a witch doctor; a problem of Kaffir women's ornaments; elevating the native; a Tasmanian

CONTENTS

study; a new Sabine story; the PAGE
Aborigine and his surroundings;
lastly, McFarland's elopement. . . 72

Appointed Governor of New Zealand 1845, when the first Maori war was raging.

Established peace and authority, and continued in office until 1854.

Refused to proclaim the constitution first designed by the British Government and Parliament for New Zealand, and was given power to draw up another.

IX. OVER-LORD OF OVER-SEAS

Lamech's slogan and the task of stilling it in Zew Zealand; with, arising therefrom, martial chronicles of Hongi, Heke, and Kawiti, Maori chiefs, and of the taking of the 'Bat's Nest' stronghold . . . 85

X. 'TWTXT NIGHT AND MORN

An Easter scene and earlier; on tramp with Selwyn; the kidnapping of Rauparaha; Rangihæta cajoled into road making; how the Maoris rubbed noses; and the boycott as peace-maker 98

XI. THE THRILL OF GOVERNING

Knight and esquires; a secret of empire; the tragedy of the naval lieutenant; Patonne's fallen-out tooth; to the hills for New Zealand's constitution; playing 'cock-fight'; and repulsing the Ngatipoa 110

First Governorship of Cape Colony 1854 to 1859.

Two dramatic events of it were

XII. IN THE QUEEN'S NAME

Showing the management of another danger spot of the realm, to which picture there come in, details of the