PREFACE

THE Author desires to acknowledge cordially the great assistance rendered to him in the preparation of many parts of this work by Miss Lucy Clifford, a granddaughter of James Thomason.

He is also grateful for the kind co-operation afforded by Major-General George Hutchinson, R.E., C.B., C.S.I., son of the Major Hutchinson mentioned in Chapter V. of this memoir; and by Mr. William Johnston of Cowhill, Dumfries, whose first wife was Thomason's daughter.

The Author wishes to add that as this volume is largely drawn from his personal recollections, and gives prominence to the religious aspects of Mr. Thomason's character, it differs somewhat in tone and in scope from the more strictly historical retrospects in the biographies of the Rulers of India
