FOREWORD

It is to be hoped that the delay in the publication of this little volume will not be criticized too harshly by the Class and that the pictures taken by Fred Franklin will serve as a reminder of those days before the world war spread to our shores and took so many loyal Ninety-Five men into the service of their country to perform not only civil but military duties necessary to the perpetuation of freedom for all.

THE VICENNIAL REUNION

The largest and most enjoyable reunion ever held by the Class of Ninety-five (or any other class for that matter) was its Vicennial. The men began to assemble on Saturday morning; by noon there were about thirty present and before night fifty men had arrived. Several went to the Graduates Club for lunch, after which the majority attended the ball game between the Varsity and the picked team of graduates, although a dozen or fifteen spent the afternoon playing golf. All returned in time for an informal dinner at the Lawn Club, which was served at eight o'clock, after which an adjournment was made to class headquarters for the rest of the evening, excepting a few who attended the presentation of Harold by the Dramatic Association on the old campus.
