

LEOPARDS OF ENGLAND AND OTHER
PAPERS ON HERALDRY

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649124954

Leopards of England and other papers on heraldry by E. E. Dorling

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

E. E. DORLING

LEOPARDS OF ENGLAND AND OTHER
PAPERS ON HERALDRY

LEOPARDS OF ENGLAND

137800

And other Papers on Heraldry

By E. E. DORLING, M.A., F.S.A.

137800

LONDON
CONSTABLE & COMPANY, LIMITED
1913

INTRODUCTION

THE first article in this collection is offered rather for the instruction of ordinary folk who wish to know something about the history of the royal arms than for the consideration of advanced students of armory. It is not claimed for it that it contains anything that is new, or indeed anything that cannot be gleaned with a little trouble from printed books and a study of armorial seals. It is hoped, however, that it may be found to set forth the reasons of the changes that have been made from time to time in the arms of the sovereigns of England at somewhat greater detail than in some of the hand-books on heraldry. To that extent it may perhaps advance some slight pretensions to originality. The drawings of shields which illustrate it are by the writer.

The paper on the King's Beasts at Hampton Court is a plain and matter-of-fact statement of the most important piece of heraldic restoration that has been attempted in this country in recent years. This account of it owes such archæological value as it possesses to the facts that I have borrowed from an article "On the Stone Bridge at Hampton Court" by Mr. C. R. Peers, F.S.A., read before the Society in 1910 and published in "Archæologia," second series, volume xii. I have to thank Messrs. Farmer and Brindley for allowing me to illustrate my paper with blocks made from the admirable photographs which they took of the carvings before they left their studio.

The remaining articles are perhaps of rather more technical character. That on the font at Holt was written at the request of my friend Mr. John Paul Rylands, F.S.A., for the Historic Society of Lancashire and Cheshire. My best thanks are due to that Society for their permission to republish it, and to Messrs. Ballantyne, Hanson & Company for the loan of the blocks that illustrate it.

This paper is an attempt, as is also that on the Nevill shields at Salisbury, to throw some light on a problem which confronts every student of ancient armory, the question, namely, whether the arms which we have been taught to regard as the arms of great lords should not more properly be considered as those of great lordships, whether in fact the arms that were displayed by the feudal nobility were not territorial rather than personal. I do not conceal my own belief that the weight of evidence is heavy on the territorial side, and though I am well aware that that opinion is widely regarded as heretical, I hope that this expression of it may induce others at least to consider it.

The other papers have already appeared in "The Ancestor," whose publishers, Messrs. Archibald Constable & Company, have kindly given me permission to reprint them here. The illustrations for these papers were made by myself. Those for the article on Canting Arms in the Zürich Roll are reproduced in the outline form in which they were given originally in "The Ancestor." The drawings of the pieces of armorial glass that are here dealt with have also appeared in that review.

E. E. D.

Kew, 1912.

CONTENTS

	Page
Leopards of England	1
The King's Beasts at Hampton Court	39
Armorial Glass in Salisbury Cathedral	57
A Montagu Shield at Hazelbury Bryan	73
Two Nevill Shields at Salisbury	79
The Heraldry of the Font at Holt	89
Canting Arms in the Zürich Roll	103

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

Shields of England and Cornwall, c. 1268	Frontispiece Facing
	page
Arms of England, 1198-1340, and Old France	12
.. .. England, 1340-1405, and France	16
.. .. England, 1405-1603, and Scotland	20
.. .. Ireland and The Stewart Sovereigns	28
.. .. Nassau and William and Mary	30
.. .. Queen Anne and Hanover	32
.. .. England, 1714-1800, and 1801-1814	34
.. .. England, 1814-1837, and from 1837	36
The King's Leopard and the Queen's Unicorn	40
The Queen's Panther and the King's Dragon	44
The Yale and the Tudor Greyhound	48
The Bull of Clarence and the Queen's Lion	52
The King's Dragon and the Queen's Panther	56
Shields of Aragon and Old France, c. 1268	62
.. .. Clare and Bigod, c. 1268	68

viii LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

	Facing page
Shield of Montagu, Earl of Salisbury	74
" " Richard Nevill, Earl of Salisbury	80
" " Richard Nevill, Earl of Warwick	84
Font at Holt, Eastern Sides	90
" " " North and North-West Sides	92
" " " West, South-West and South Sides	94
" " " North-West and West Sides	96
" " " South-East and East Sides	98
	page
Arms of Grünenberg	106
" " Bettler	107
" " Veldkirch	108
" " Mühlhain	109
" " Montfort von Wallenstad	110
" " Roschach	111
" " Aichelberg and Aichan	112
" " Tüfel	113
Crests of Wolfsattel and Wisendangen	113
Arms of Ot a dem Rand	115
" " Hoheneck	117
" " Schwarzenberg	118
" " Styria	120
" " Blattenberg	121
" " Wolfurt	122
" " Helmshoven	123
" " Kürneg	125
" " Stubenwid	126
" " Heutler	128
" " Russa	129
" " Sulzberg	130
" " Helfenstein	131
" " Lobeg	132
" " Teck	133
" " Manesse	134
Crest of Roseneck	135
" " Graber	136