Secretary's Foreword

THE Sixteenth Annual Meeting of our Association was marked by a very good attendance and the earnest consideration of a number of subjects exceedingly important to the Manufacturing Perfumer. The report of the Committee on Campaign of Education urging concerted action on some plan for increasing the consumption of American perfumes is particularly important.

Your Secretary has followed the plan of his predecessor in eliminating much of the formal and passing debate, and has also grouped the reports and debates together under subject headings.

The excellent addresses delivered during the meeting and at the banquet have been printed in full or in abstract.

As the report clearly shows, the splendid work of the Committee on Legislation has resulted in a yearly saving to our members many times in excess of the cost of life long membership. It is not always that such definite money saving results can be pointed out; but it must be admitted that the far reaching advantages of co-operation and fellowship will in many ways work to the good of every member—active and associate.

Respectfully submitted,

New York, April, 1910

EDWIN ROSS, Secretary
