INTRODUCTION.

I PLEAD for a neglected bit of the Christian armour. The strong helmet, the sharp sword, the ready shield,—even the shining breast-plate,—have many wearers. But the quiet shoes are out of date. I think people well-nigh forget that such things are possible. Yet there stands the injunction :

‘Your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace.’—EPH. vi. 15.

While the old and never-revoked promise covers all the roughness, of every road.

‘Thy shoes shall be iron and brass ; and as thy days, so shall thy strength be.’—DEUT. xxxiii. 25.

August 1884.
