PUBLISHERS' PREFACE.

---

While many books have been written on the Philippines and the East generally since the American occupation, it has been a woman's task to finally give to the reading public a home insight, such as only a woman can give, to the life in the Orient. That intimate personal touch, that will appeal to the reader, are the thoughts of one woman conveyed to another without expectation that the letters were finally to be put in book form—it is the daily life of an Army officer's wife. That these letters were not written for publication enhances their value, because of the kind and quality of the information given. After a reading of the manuscript, a well-known critic expressed the following opinion: "They are delightful, vivid, interesting, and charmingly written."
