PREFACE:

This volume has been made partly out of selections from a series of Class Lectures at the Peabody Institute, in Baltimore, and partly from articles contributed to several American Reviews during the last twenty years. Written in the intervals of business engrossments, they lay no claim to very earnest thoughtfulness, but are merely running observations upon several subjects of literary and social interest, and are submitted to the public with whatever degree of modesty may be regarded consistent with such submission at all.

Baltimore, September 1891.
