The purpose of this work is to record the full title of every publication, article, or paper, however ephemeral, or wherever printed, that may in any way aid to elucidate the history of events within the limits of that section, known in the early annals of Connecticut and Pennsylvania as the "Town and County of Westmoreland;" more especially to guide the student to a correct knowledge of that controversy of which one event was the far-famed Massacre of Wyoming—an historical fact which, small as it may have been in extent, has been so far-reaching in its results, that it is as familiar to the readers of American History as any occurrence between the incipient action at Lexington, Mass., and the terminant surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va.; and without which a history of the American Revolution would be naturally incomplete.

The literature of every section comprises two very ephemeral kinds of publications which are often of the utmost value to historical students, viz.: Newspapers and Maps. Everything of this character, bearing on the history of the circumscribed section, is herein recorded as far as known. Bibliographical and critical notes are added wherever the subject is susceptible of annotation. Also the prices which many of the publications have brought at the auction sales of large American libraries, are added.

 Sweet Wyoming! The day when thou wert doomed

This romance, founded on the Massacre of Wyoming, takes wondrous liberties with history. It makes John Butler a cousin and protégé of Col. Zebulon Butler; Brandt present at the "Massacre," where he not only takes 1000 scalps, but slays his own father, and is himself killed by the patriots; and terminates John Butler's career by a stroke from the sword of one of the heroes, which "in its backward sweep nearly dis severed Butler's head from his body," with more of the same sort.

A good book's an unobtrusive friend,
Which, when consulted, doth sound wisdom speak,
To mend your fortune,—heart and conscience mend,
Truth telling DUE doth useful treasure eke,
Evil companions had looks ofttime prove,
Soiling the mind we should keep pure and white;
To wicked actions they beguile the love,
Masking the wrong with a false veil of right,
"Ah! who can tell how hard it is to climb
The steep where Fame's proud temple shines afar?
Ah! who can tell how many a soul sublime,
Hath felt the influence of malignant star,
And waged with fortune an eternal war?"
"Be just and fear not."
